BUSINESS FIRM SUSTAINS LOSS AT HANDS OF SWINDLER.

Will of William H. Lambert Admitted to Probate-Citizens Pay Annual Capitation Tax.

Special Correspondence of The Star. ALEXANDRIA, Va., December 10, 1907.

The firm of Allen & Timberman was swindled early last evening out of $3.90 in cash and drug supplies valued at $1.10. The police today are endeavoring to lo-cate the whereabouts of "Miss Ida Kelly." but, so far, without success.

Mr. Allen states that at 5:50 o'clock yesterday afternoon he received a telephone message from "Miss Ida Kelly, 226 North Henry street," requesting him to send certain articles. The individual giving the order said he would like to know the exact cost. In a few moments Mr. Allen informed him that it would be $1.10. The speaker requested the druggist to send change for a $5 bill. and also expressed a desire that the goods be sent at once, informing Mr. Allen that a wedding was to take place at the house last evening.

Mr. Allen filled the order and gave his messenger bey the necessary change and Mr. Allen filled the order and gaye his messenger bey the necessary change and the package of goods. The boy proceeded to the address given. He was approached by a colored man, who asked if he was the boy with a package from Allen. The lad replied in the affirmative, and the man took the package and money directing the boy to wait. The stranger then entered an aller. The messenger waited without boy to wait. The stranger then entered an alley. The messenger waited without result. Finally he knocked at the door and learned that no one named Miss Kelly resided there. The boy returned to the drug store, where he reported the case to Mr. Allen. The story was verified, and the police notified.

Bequests are made as follows: To his daughter, Mrs. Florence May Bell of Savannah, Ga., $1,000; to his son, Arthur Wilson Lambert, $1,000, together with his Masonic jewels and testimonials, and also all of his books, pictures and everything belonging to the testator in St. Louis at the time of his death; Alexandria Hospital, $1,000; Masonic Home in Richmond, $500, and to his daughter, Helen Louise Marshall, the residue of the estate.

The will of John W. Burke has been admitted to probate. The testator directs that no appraisement of the estate be made, and names J. T., N. P. T. and Harry R. Burke executors. To his sons, J. T., Harry R. and N. P. I. Burke, he bequeaths his interest in the banking house of Burke & Herbert, and suggests that they continue the business. It is explained that during his life the testator made provision for his son Edmund J. Burke, and for Misses Fanny M. and Virginia R. Burke and Mrs. Ellen C. Burke Eddy, his daughters. To his wife, Martha Burke, he leaves all of his property, and directs that upon her death it revert to his seven children, to be divided equally among them.
